Howie Hawkins has been active in movements for peace, justice, the environment, and independent politics since the late 1960s. He lives in Syracuse.

A former Marine, Hawkins organized opposition to the Vietnam War.

He was also active in the anti-apartheid movement to end US corporate investment in the system of racist labor exploitation in South Africa.

After attending Dartmouth College, Hawkins co-founded and worked as a carpenter in a construction workers cooperative that specialized in solar and wind installations.

Hawkins was a co-founder of the anti-nuclear Clamshell Alliance in 1976 and the Green Party in the US in 1984.

A Teamster who now works unloading trucks and rail cars at UPS, Hawkins is active in Teamsters for a Democratic Union and US Labor Against the War.

Hawkins has written articles on politics, economics, environmental issues, and current events for many publications, including Against the Current, Green Politics, International Socialist Review, New Politics, Peace and Democracy News, and Z Magazine.

He is the editor of Independent Politics: The Green Party Strategy Debate (Chicago: Haymarket Books, 2006).
